NEW MARYLAND
RAILROAD DEPOT.Its Location on the West Side Has Been Settled.

PROPERTIES TO BE USED

Tracks To Be Run Into the City on an Overhead Structure, Thus Avoiding Trouble With the Pennsylvania and West PennAccording to statements said to have been made by Western Maryland officials yesterday afternoon the long argued question as to the location of the new Western Maryland station on the West Side has been settled. It was further stated that the road now in course of construction will enter that part of Connelville on a steel trestle 22 feet high.Real Estate Agent Charles Von the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, who has been working through a West Side real estate man, was in town last evening for the purpose of closing the negotiation on the property of Mrs. Ellen Morrison at 301 West Main street. An auction was taken on the property yesterday afternoon and the bids were $10,000 and would have expired today. No bidders were stated this morning but it was said that it was about $10,000. Mrs. Morrison received the price she first asked for the house and lot although the company made an attempt to secure a lower figure.
The Mrs. Morrison statement was made by the railroad men that the new station will be erected on the property of W. H. Thomas and A. Z.
Wagoner, which adjoins the Morrison lot. All three properties are 40 by 120 feet and run back from Main street to the Erie right.It was said that the route through the West Side has been practically settled and will cross Main street just above the Columbia hotel over the land occupied by Murphy's blacksmith shop and a small restaurant. It will make almost a straight line through the West Side and the tracks will go directly over Mrs. Morrison's property. The A. Z. Wagoner lot was said that the station will occupy the entire three lots and will be 120 by 120 feet. According to this it would appear that the tracks will go through the building. From there it takes a course down the alley just above the Morrison property to that of Mrs.
Salle Allen a few houses above the river at which point it will turn and connect with the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.Options are said to have been taken on all of the ground along this alley though no money has been paid over to the owners notified of the company's action.A. Z. Wagoner stated today that the option on his ground, which was exercised some time ago, had not been closed or had he received notification of the time when such action will be taken.If the tracks are run into the city on the overhead structure there will hardly be any cause for trouble on the part of either the Pennsylvania, whose branch they will cross, or the West Penn. If the rails are put down on the ground it will probably be necessary for the West Penn to change the location of their switch on Main street, West Side, as it will cut through the center of the present one.Northern Light Steamer is OverdueUnited Press Telegram.
SACULT, Mich., Dec. 3.—A considerable anxiety is felt today for the steamer Northern Light which is 15 hours over due here from Duluth.
The vessel has not been heard from since she left that port. It is thought she might have taken refuge in some sheltered harbor.The vessel is owned by the Mutual Transit Line.A Great Year for Big GameWhen the season closed Wednesday night State Commissioner Kallfuss estimated that 300,000 had been the result of the game-hunting hunt. This, he said, was a record for the state. He estimated that a run for their trapping five hundred bears, against 700 last year. He also said that hunters have until January 1 to make good. While

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 3.— (Special.)—A report reached here today that a great number of hunters had held up the Union Pacific station at Devil's Slide, Utah, yesterday the station agent and escaped with all the money in the station. The robbers cut the telephone and telegraph wires before they fled from the place.Sun Shines After a Week of SnowThe cold snap which swooped down on the coke region with this week's snow storm is still much in evidence and the mercury during the night limited the low prices. At 8 o'clock this morning it was 29 degrees, although yesterday morning the temperature was one degree lower. Last evening at 5 o'clock 29 degrees was recorded.The sun came out for the first time this morning in several days and made the cold, snappy air feel bracing and cheerful. It gave an air of old-fashioned winter to the atmosphere.The snow has packed so that driving is now possible. Sled riders have been making the most of the first snow of the present season which has lasted for more than a day. As yet, however, there has been no noticeable activity along the line of clearing the pavements.Hoffstot and Leslie Must Go on TrialUnited Press Telegram.
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 3.—Frank N. Hoffstot, President of the Pressed Steel Car Company, and Max G. Leslie, county delinquent tax collector, must stand trial in criminal court on the felony charges on which they were indicted by the Grand Jury in the Commonwealth last evening.Three indictments were filed in Criminal Court in these cases by Judge Swearingen and Cohen today. In all the indictments the count returns in quash in indictments against Hoffstot and Leslie.The two men appeared on a bond-less transaction and a challenge was made. It was agreed that they should stand trial in the county court and indictment should be made on the charge.The two delinquents, accompanied by two security each, and were inducted to a trial on the outside of the city. The trial taking place at County Detective Frank McLaughlin Working on the Case and Authorities Now Believe Grim Joke Was Tried on Assyrion Merchant.It has been some time since Con-nelville has furnished the county authorities a "Black Hand" case but it became known today that County Detective Frank McLaughlin has been quietly at work on a letter received by Mike Ziter the Assyrion fruit dealer at the end of the bridge on the West Side.In his mail of Tuesday a week ago, Ziter was somewhat taken back when he opened a letter from Brownsville demanding $2,000. Otherwise he was to suffer the consequences which were not stated. The letter was at once shown to Chief of Police Heitzel and later to Postmaster A. E. Kurtz.

The county authorities were then communicated with and Detective McLaughlin put on the case. Instructions in the letter directed Ziter to take a walk along the Tipton road on the evening of the day he received the letter. There he would be approached by a man who would ask him if he had the money, which would be a suggestion for him to produce the cash.It is said that McLaughlin took the walk, instead, but nothing turned up.
Other walks have also been taken on other nights but the letter sender has yet to be apprehended. The message was written on plain paper with black ink and 3002 the serial number and cross number were marked at the bottom.
"Black Hand" was the signature given.
Ziter says the only acquaintances he has in Brownsville are Assyrion like himself and none are his enemies that he knows of. Whether the letter was a hoax remains to be seen, but so far nothing has developed.Garment Workers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President today announced the appointment of Fred W. Lehman of St. Louis to be Solicitor General to succeed the late Edward D. White."Uncle Joe" had come back for his last time in the speakership. With his long black hair and a more arranged angle than ever in the corner of his smiling face, Joseph C. Cannon, Speaker of the House of Representatives, arrived today and got down to business for his final round in "Care of the House."With the famous "dread" smile front shedding its shining radiance before him, there do not seem to be any signs of the "Uncle Joe" who has been carried in a plain brown wooden box of chairs. There he deposited his baggage and then, after a brief look back at the top and the bottom of the House."I am here," said about politics," he cheered the waterway "element" of the House. "I am feeling vigorous as a chipmunk and am ready for business." He looks like a busy beaver. "We've got to do it."There was no sign of mourning about the speaker's office. If he has not yet sorrow knive at his heart he must be a man of iron. "I am here," he said to his party and out. "I am back at work with the same old smile, the same old chair and the same old attitude of 'Jollyfying the world again.'"PARADE OF HOBOES Excited Over Crime.United Press Telegram.

SINCEVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 3.— After sitting all night hearing evidence to the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, aged 57, who was found dead at her home in Shirley, near here, the Coroner's Jury today returned a verdict finding that the aged woman had been murdered.Immediately after the result of the inquest was announced, Prosecuting Attorney K. C. Moore declared that he had three prominent persons under surveillance and that an arrest would be made within the next 48 hours.According to Prosecutor Moore, the evidence against one of the three persons is practically conclusive. Despite the fact that evidence was presented concerning this person's alleged connection with the crime, the verdict of the Coroner's jury declared that the woman had been murdered by "some person or persons unknown."Although Mrs. Allen, a widow, was known to have kept thousands of dollars secreted in different parts of the house, only $100 was found when the place was searched. She had an income from oil properties exceeding $10,000 yearly. Her expenses were meagre and it is said she never had less than $5,000 in her home and frequently as high as $20,000. Her number was stolen when the victim was strangled to death with probably never be determined.Guy and Claude Allen, grandsons, and Rachel Allen, a daughter-in-law, were the principal witnesses at the inquest.The Coroner's jury will meet in a special session at Middleburg on Monday and the District Attorney will confer with the judges. It is possible a special Grand Jury will be called to take up the case.When the body of Mrs. Allen was found yesterday morning, rigor mor-tae had already set in. Physicians who examined the body declared the woman had been dead 8 or 10 hours when found. That the assailant was powerful was indicated by the breaking of several bones in the victim's throat when the murderer was choking the aged woman to death.Census Figures

Wendling Shows
Great UnconcernUnited Press Telegram.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 3.—Instructions to the jury and arguments by attorneys marked the last steps today in the trial of Joseph Wendling for the alleged murder of Alma Kellner.
The case is expected to reach the jury late today.If Wendling is the slayer of Alma Kellner, as the Commonwealth charges, he has shown unusual nerve. He has not displayed the slightest sign of fear at any time and went through his examination and grilling cross-examination without a falter.Friday afternoon he was taken to St. John's Church with the jury to inspect the scene of his alleged crime.
Wendling went into the church and stood at the altar where the prosecution says the little girl was seized by her murderer. He gazed at the hole through which it is said the body of the murdered child was thrust, then went into the gloomy cellar and looked at the furnace where it is believed the murderer tried to burn the mangled body and then ascended through the trap door into the school house cellar where the remains were found.Wendling showed as much interest as anyone and was smiling and unconcerned throughout.Haas Funerals This AfternoonImpressive memorial services were held last evening at 8:15 by the lodge of Elks over the remains of their departed brother, Andrew Haas.
The services were held in the parlors of the Haas Hotel, the late home of Ray L. Ryan, the Exalted Ruler, assisted by the officers of the lodge.
About 75 members of the lodge assembled at 7:30 at the Elks' home and united in a body to the Haas Hotel.
The services were attended by a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Haas, who had assembled to pay their last respects to those whom they so highly respected. The services were according to the ritual of the lodge.A duet, "The Vagant Chime," was rendered by James H. Millard and S. P.
Pfeiffer. The local tributes were numerous and unusually handsome, the duet being magnificently set pieces.
This afternoon at 2 o'clock services were held over the remains of Mr. and Mrs.
Haas in the parlors of the hotel where their bodies rest side by side. Rev. J. E.

weeks now as to the exact time of the inspection. Captain Kidd has also been notified of the regular army inspection to be held on February 1, 1911.Quite a number of men high in the ranks of the Pennsylvania Guard are expected to be present at the State inspection, among them General Thomas J. Stewart, of Harrisburg; General C. B. Dougherty, of Wilkes-Barre; Col. A. J. Logan, of Pittsburg; commander of the Eighteenth Infantry; General W. G. Price, of Philadelphia, and in command of the First Brigade.At the regular army inspection to be held on February 1 Col. Richard Coulter and staff will be present.
Company D expects to make a fine impression at the 1911 inspection and much interest is being shown in the drill work.The Adjutant General has informed Captain Kidd that he may dispose of the heavy blue overcoats now used by members of Company D. These are about 55 of the coats which belong to the State and which will be sold at $5.50 apiece or one-fifth of the actual cost. Otherwise they are to be returned to the arsenal. It is necessary to dispose of the coats as a new style has been adopted. The new regulation coats, dark in color, are on their way to this city and are expected to arrive next week.It is the intention of headquarters to give those who cannot afford heavy coats in this section a chance to procure them at very low cost. And the value received will be exceptionally good as the coats have only been worn three or four times and are all

There is more carfare in this section of the country than all other sections put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be unimproved. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven carfare to be a constitutional disease and therefore a constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only remedy that cures on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. This offers one hundred dollars for any case of catarrh that it does not cure and refund the money. Send for circular and testimonials.

Address: J. J. HENLEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists.

SCOTSDALE SHOW BEGINS TUESDAY.

First Annual Exhibition of Fine Poultry Will Be Notable.

THE SCHOOL CHILDREN'S DAY

When Accompanied by Teachers They Will Be Admitted to the Show Free Tuesday Afternoon—Coops For 700 Birds Are All Ready.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Dec. 3.—Next week will be the week of the hen in this town. From Tuesday until Saturday the poultry family will be holding a reception in the big room of the Miller & Grant building. There will be the members of the highest chicken social circles here from all around. Some of them come from away down in Maryland and some from about Philadelphia and other places. There are five, new accommodations for 700 birds. The Scottdale Poultry & Pet Stock Association when it organized and determined to hold a show discussed whether coops should be rented or whether the association should go ahead and buy the coops outright. The latter was decided upon and newly $400 went out for the folding coops. These are now set up, spick and span and waiting in the show room.

The association met last evening in the show room and concluded the arrangements for the opening of the exhibit next Tuesday. That day free admission to the show is to be given to all the pupils of the Scottdale public and parochial schools and Everson and White's district. That is when the pupils are accompanied by a teacher.

There is a great array of prizes offered for the Scottdale show, and the people here raise up generously with special prizes that with the regular ones make a great display in the window of the show room.

The officers of the local association are: President, S. O. Steiner; Vice President, A. Hawthorne; Secretary, W. G. Sherrick; Assistant Secretary, O. L. Griffith; Treasurer, Harry F. Kelly; Show Superintendent, A. V. Fazenbaker; Assistant Show Superintendent, O. M. Jarrett; Advisory Board, W. A. Hipkies, Fred Jones and A. Hawthorne; Executive Committee, S. O. Steiner, G. F. Glos, O. M. Jarrett and C. M. McCracken.

The members of the association are: S. O. Steiner, William Hipkies, W. G. Sherrick, A. A. Myers, A. B. Kelly, R. T. Butler, E. S. Husher, W. E. Kelly, Fred Jones, W. A. Evans, P. C. Lattman, Byron H. MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING.

Says Elder Cunningham.
When pure healthy blood courses through every vein and artery of the body, the organs are in a healthy condition, and a strenuous active life is a pleasure to man or woman.

But if the blood is impure and sluggish, the appetite poor, digestion weak, and vitality not up to the standard, life is a burden; then you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil. Such evidence as comes from Henry Cunningham, elder of the Baptist Church, Kingston, N. C., should be convincing. He says, "I was run-down and weak from general debility, and suffered from vertigo. I took Vinol with the most gratifying results. I gained in health and strength and now feel unusually well."

Elder Cunningham's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of cod liver, aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Graham & Company, Druggists, Connelville, Pa.

Fatal Accident Barely Averted

Another fatal accident was narrowly averted yesterday morning on Water street just after No. 18 pulled out of the station and started on its trip over the mountains. Only a quick stop on the part of Engineer Tuttle of Pittsburgh saved a brakeman from being ground under the wheels.

The incident occurred about nine o'clock. A freight train was standing in one of the outside tracks opposite the city hall, the caboose having just been coupled up at that point. While waiting for orders to pull out, one of the brakemen walked across the main track. No. 48 had already gathered considerable speed when it reached the city hall and the "brakie" stopped directly in front of the oncoming train, and he was pulled out just in time to escape a horrible death. Bruises and lacerations were the extent of the injuries.

Caught in Engine.
With his clothing almost stripped from him, A. A. Wright, engineer at the Tyler Tube & Pipe Company's plant, Washington, Pa., may be thankful he is yet alive. His coat caught in the machinery last night, and he was pulled out just in time to escape a horrible death. Bruises and lacerations were the extent of the injuries.

Wait Bilty For an Awakening.
The Men's Federation of Bradlock are trying to engage Billy Sunday to come there for a series of meetings. For this object they have organized a "Billy Sunday Club." When the baseball-exhibition comes to Erie, or adjacent point, the Federation will hostage him and attempt to lend his religious powers to Bradlock for the spread of the gospel.

If You Buy a Piano From Us You Are Assured of a Square Deal

We have something substantial to offer the person who buys a piano from us; and that something is "everything" that has during the past 25 years contributed towards building up this, the largest piano business in America.

This big business HAS TAKEN WORK. It has been steeped in progressiveness. We have been willing to sell at a SMALLER PROFIT than the "other fellow."

Our customers' wishes have been our pleasure—always.

We have built broadly—liberally—substantially. We have sold "close"—watched our expenses and worked. We have paid the price for the success we enjoy, and you and the six to seven thousand persons who, every year, buy pianos from us get the benefit of it.

Inasmuch as buying a piano, means an outlay of quite a sum of money—you owe it to yourself to look well into the house from which you intend to buy.

Suppose you investigate US. ASK YOUR BANKER. Ask anyone who is in a position to know. See if we haven't something "SUBSTANTIAL" to offer you.

MISS SELINA LUE

and the Soap-box Babies

by MARIE THOMPSON DAVIES

Illustrations by Magnus G. Kottner

COPYRIGHT 1909, THE DOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Then, I thank you, sir, you'll all go," said Miss Selina Lue, with courage in her face and voice, but quivering in her knees. "You run to the pump, all of you, to wash your faces and hands while I get my hat and the babies. You big ones wash the little ones good, for clean faces is the best way to show appreciation for such a visitation."

In a few minutes she appeared at the door with the soap-boxes in her arms and announced herself as ready. Ethel Maud had picked up Blossom, and Lucille had darted across the street for young Jim, and so skillful was the extraction of the shaver from his cradle that he had never opened his eyes, and it seemed like that he was to have the adventure of his life in a state of unconsciousness.

With a great flourish of manner their bounding friend seated Miss Selina Lue in the trolley, and under her direction and with the assistance of the meek young man, he packed the children in around her.

"Let's see, I can hold both the Marbles in my lap, and prop Clemmie and Patsie in on this side," she directed, with an eye both to comfort and security. "Lucille can sit on the seat by me and hold young Jim in her lap. No, Bessie, I can't let you hang on behind; you and Sammie sit on this little side seat and Ella Virginia and Ethel Maud on that one. Ethel Maud, you take Blossom in your lap and help one of the others by the sleeve to stand up in front of you. Everybody else, all in the cracks where they can! Now, we are all ready, mister, and you can let him go as soon as you are a mind to. I shure do feel safe with you up in front and the young man looking so careful like. I have lost got confidence in his back, even."

Miss Selina Lue's merry eyes were dancing with excitement and the wide garden hat that Miss Cynthia had trimmed with purple ribbons was set at a rather adventurous angle over her soft hair, which was flying in gray curls in every direction.

"Lands alive! what all the folks over to the landing he surprised if they come back and find us gone!" she exclaimed. All her neighbors had sauntered over the bluff to take dinner pale to the moon passing on the noon boat, and so were in ignorance of the expedition on which their various families were about to embark.

Perhaps never in the history of the "ottermobile" family had one carried such a load of jubilation, something joy as was packed in that very fashionable member. As it whizzed and spun up the river road all the passengers squealed with delight, and as they coasted down the other side of the hill they rose to their feet as one child. They danced and yelled, waved whatever head-covering was possessed by one or two of them and stepped on one another's toes in a frenzy of delight. At the top of the far hill they slowed up, for their host was impressed by the sweeping river view and he turned to point it out to Miss Selina Lue.

"Yes, indeed, it looks like there never was such a view of the whole world laid out before you anywhere else. I have set on the grocery store and watched the top of this hill in winter and in summer, sun-up and sun-down, in storm and clearing, and all the time a wonder what was here on the other side that I never expected to see in this life. I am glad I always laid it out in my mind as beautiful as I could, for I would be ashamed if I had gone and made little of it to myself because I hadn't ever seen it. And maybe never would. Things always measure up to what you expect—and it's the same with people, too; looking for what you see might not run on sinners. Now, Sammie, Bessie, all of you stop climbing out! 'Spose he was to start off all of a sudden!"

Miss Selina Lue was busily engaged in settling the squirmers as the machine swept slowly around and started down the hill. A far, faint cry reached her ears, and she turned suddenly.

"Lands alive, mister!" she called. "We've done spilled Ethel Maud, with all that climbing around! If it was a-taking a ride on the golden streets, that child would fell out into the set of glass. Please turn around and pick her up." Some distance back a bunch of blue calico sat in the road and lifted up a voice of lamentation.

"How ever did you happen to fall out, honey?" said Miss Selina Lue, as she squatted up Ella Virginia and started to tuck the stray down beside her.

"I didn't fall! I climbed—I climbed to get the gentleman a flower—and now it's done broke!" she sobbed, as she held up a crushed, blue cornflower.

"Upon my word, that's a sweet little girl to get a boy for an old man—d'you hear?—a sweet little girl. Come over here and sit by me and I'll hold you in, and the baby, too." And so the big red machine puffed down the street to the grocery. Ethel Maud and Blossom rode on the box-seat as it went.

And the moment they came to a standstill they were surrounded by the mothers of the joyous youngsters and a babble ensued that was confusion confounded.

Mrs. Kinney clasped her wringing lips as they were handed down to her in turn, and with each she managed a "Thank you, sir" that sounded as if they had been returned from the grave to her maternal bosom. With the last in her arms she turned and said: "Miss Selina Lue, I thank you for this happening to 'em what they won't never forget. They ain't a mother or child on this bluff as could sit along without you single day."

Mrs. Dobbs affirmed the remarks of Mrs. Kinney heartily, but she was overcome with a shyness two hundred and ten pounds in weight, so could only nod. Her pride in the exalted position of Ethel Maud was overwhelming, but she lifted down Kinney and Tynes with impartial delight. "Miss Selina Lue," she said, "I'm hold Clemmie for you. I do wish her mother could see you drive up. You don't know how a mother feels when she sees her children in rich and stylish company."

At last there were left only Ethel Maud and Blossom to descend, and the old gentleman took the baby while the child slowly climbed down, assisted by her mother and Bessie.

"Mr. my!" exclaimed Miss Selina Lue. "Looks like when you sit 'em all together this bluff is rich in children. Who's going to take Blossom? Everybody have got a awful and more." And she was just about to deposit Carrots on the steps when she exclaimed: "Lands alive, if here ain't Miss Cynthia in the nick of time! Give Blossom to her please, mister."

And so it was into a pair of very lovely arms that the old gentleman lowered the gurgling baby, and he had a look into beautiful and very deep blue eyes; and with the look something welled up and overflowed a certain acid and anger-wanted area in his larger old heart, and in the twinkling of his keen, dark eyes the waters of forgiveness had made it to bloom with its accustomed flowers of good cheer, generosity, and the star-bloom of peace. His journey for the purpose of incriminations became one of discovery of treasures long possessed but unacknowledged—and others to be possessed.

It was at this auspicious moment, as the mothers were all absorbed in questioning, in listening to the children and exclaiming over the wonders of the expedition with Miss Selina Lue, that Mr. Alan stepped from around the corner of the grocery and stood at the side of the "ottermobile," before he knew of its presence. And before he had time to do or say anything the old gentleman reached down and gave him a tremendous squeeze.

One-Pronged Buck.

I. B. Williams of Uniontown passed through here last night on his way home from a hunting trip in the woods of Bedford county. He had with him a big, one-pronged buck, which he brought down after breaking his leg. He reported that an unusual number of deer have been shot in Bedford county this season.

Clarkburg Saloons.

Clarkburg, W. Va., is agitated I over the saloon question. There are twelve of these places in one block on Pike street. For many years the town has been in a state of confusion over the liquor question, and the saloon is the center of the trouble.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

THE SOISSON.

The High Rollers.

The old snappy burlesque show, an attraction which, while classified under the heading of "Burlesque," ranks easily with the best musical comedies, or high priced extravaganzas, is the show billed to appear at the Solihon Theatre, Tuesday, December 6.

It has for a certain reason a musical offering called "The Merry Widow and the Widow." It is one of those rich and rare comedies without any real authority, where the unexpected is always happening in laughable defiance to the spectators' anticipation. The fun is always up to the high water mark, and the witty repart is served up hot, secure, and to the hilt.

Among those taking part in the show may be mentioned Mr. Arthur George Edwards, Marie Taylor, Matty and Andy Master, Everett, and several others.

you and your father together, for you've both done had a lesson in being away from one another."

"Miss Selina Lue, I don't know what you said to him today, but when I offered to spend the night at the hotel with him, he said he wanted me to come right back and stay here with you. I believe he is going to apply for a soap-box for me. He seems to feel about your guardianship as do Mr. Farley and the others."

"Well, looks like when I think of you and Miss Cynthia having to move away from me to the other side of town my heart just drops down. I have woke up more than once wept-eyed about it, but I try and think I will see you sometimes, and all the time I will have the remembering of you to love. The Lord has been good to me in letting me have so many members and I ain't serving Him right by getting unhappy, so I won't."

As she spoke, Miss Selina Lue smiled at him wistfully.

"And that's just why I hoped you would wait up to see me to-night," said Mr. Alan as he took her hand. "What would you say if I told you that father is going to buy the Hill Mansion and all the property for— for a wedding present for her? And you'll always let me have the barn, so you see we are going to be in big soap-boxes right where you can attend to us the rest of our lives."

"Oh, Mr. Alan, honey, they ain't nothing to say that'll do to tell how I feel! My Lord is just about to crowd my heart with blessings!" And Miss Selina Lue's eyes shone in the moonlight.

"Miss Selina Lue," said Mr. Alan slowly, as a man speaks from his inmost soul, "in the letter—and my father—they want me to paint one more picture—for the chapel. If I can paint what I feel when I see you with your manager-child in your arms—I will paint a picture for the whole world. Perhaps some day."

"If you do, Mr. Alan, you'll paint the picture of a woman that lives by the loving she gives and gives and the love of God. But don't make me cry—I'm just smiling through my tears."

THE END

MAKES COLDS OR GRIPPE VANISH.

Surely Breaks the Most Severe Cold and Ends Grippe Misery in Just a Few Hours.

You can surely end Grippe and break up the most severe cold either in head, chest, back, stomach or limbs, by taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

It promptly relieves the most unbearable neuralgic pains, headache, dizziness, and nausea, soothes up feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, running of the nose, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges. Take this harmless Compound as directed, without interference with your usual duties and with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after effect as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which is any druggist in the world can supply.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.
